Memorial Places of Remembrance in the Bavarian Quarter in Berlin-Schöneberg by Renata Stih and Frieder Schnock

Realized in 1993, a decentralized memorial in the Bavarian Quarter in Berlin-Schöneberg commemorates the disenfranchisement of the Jews, which began in 1933 with the seizure of power by National Socialists, resulting in expulsion, deportation and murder. Eighty double-sided signs mounted on street lighting poles express through text and images how ordinances and laws excluded citizens, marginalized next-door neighbors to become outsiders. By walking through the streets, the observer can relate to the way in which these regulations eroded basic human rights. Instinctively, questions about the past and present events evolve.

Circle of Friends decentralized memorial Places of Remembrance in the Bavarian Quarter in Berlin Schöneberg e.V.

This memorial by the artists Renata Stih & Frieder Schnock is a lively place of confrontation with the past. The Circle of Friends was founded in 2018 and registered as association in 2019 (under the file number VR 371 97 B as a non-profit) at the district court of Berlin-Charlottenburg.

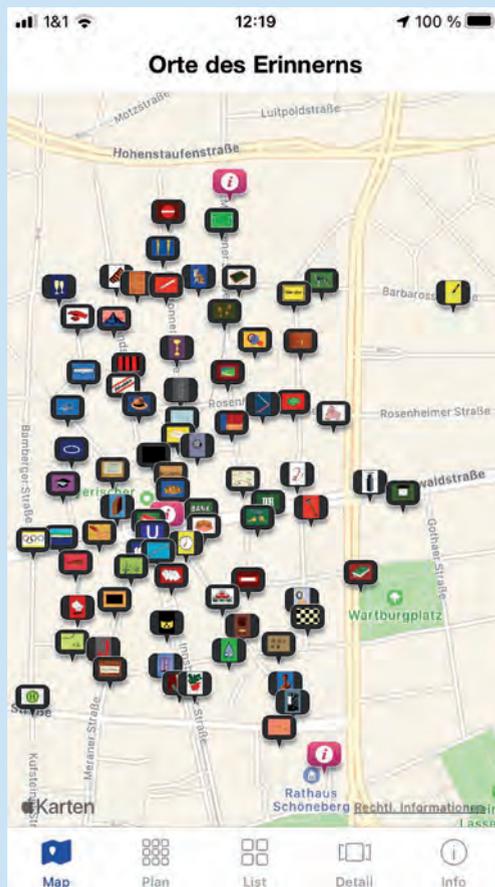

The association pursues exclusively non-profit goals through educational work (e.g. guided tours & lectures), through the support of research on memorial topics and initiatives that support the preservation of the memorial.

The Circle of Friends combines the culture of remembrance with debates about today's threats to our democracy through anti-Semitism and racism, the disregard of liberal values and violence against those who think differently.
